Herbal Bath Filter product family with Amino Acid, Zeolite, Salt

Its active ingredients are formulated similarly to the Sirene bath salt product family, with the addition that the herbs are placed in the filters in a dried form and also contain zeolite with high bio-trace element content.

Its effect thus combines the beneficial properties of salts, herbs, and zeolite.

During bathing, the uptake of substances in the bathing water and the release of substances in the body take place on the basis of the principle of reverse osmosis. The above facts indicate that a person's skin surface is able to absorb external matter similarly to the digestive system.

Making tea from herbs dates back to ancient times.

Experience has shown that an aqueous dispersion of salt and minerals doesn't inhibit but on the contrary, substantially promotes the rapid absorption of active ingredients in herbs. Osmotically absorbed substances enter the capillary system directly under the skin surface. Following the ideas described, we have developed the Zeomineral Neptun product line as a unique product in the world.

Herbal Bath Filter product family with Amino Acid, Zeolite, Salt

Its use is different from that of bath salts due to the packaging of the filters:

- Place the bath filter in the bathtub and pour approx. 5 litres of hot water on it.
- Let it stand for a few minutes, then pour approx. 30-40 litres of warm water on it.
- Bathe for at least 10-15 minutes in the form of a sitting bath (by pouring the water on the head, hair, and body surface).
- Allow the bath solution to dry on the body surface.

While bathing, use the filter as a sponge that is great for massaging and invigorating your skin. The essential oils of the herbs are released in the warm water, together with the steam of the salt water; it is an excellent inhalation bath that has a beneficial effect on the respiratory tract.

One filter is enough for one bath.
